Name:	Todd Ward (#110)
Position:	Forward
Height:	195 cm (6'5")
College:	Oglethorpe
Professional Experience:	n/a
Game 1 Video:	http://tinyurl.com/5r7erjb

6'5 combination forward with excellent athleticism and easy hops. Best classified as a "jumping jack." Does his best work off the ball, cutting to the bucket and retrieving alley-oops well above the rim. Unlikely to be the recipient of set plays, finding his points as a result of activity, length and athletic gifts. Highly productive in transition as well, getting up and down the court like a gazelle. Despite being undersized, possesses the skill package to be an outstanding rebounder. He grabs boards at their apex. Doesn't rest on his laurels and rely on leaping ability, boxing out without fail. Guarded every position on the court defensively. Displayed the lateral quickness and agility to hound point guards and the wiry strength to battle J.R. Inman on the interior. Switches are a non-issue. Ward appeared comfortable in the mid-range, catching in the high post and elevating over defenders. His high release is unblockable. He did not appear as adept facing the hoop and shooting from a standstill. Perimeter skills are not particularly advanced, lacking counter moves or ball handling creativity.
